Hi friends,

It rained and rained on the weekend. I went walking in the city wearing my new gumboots, raincoat and with my new umbrella. It was great fun and even though it was cold I didn't feel cold because my clothes were nice and dry. Here is my photo.

That's another thing I love about the weather. I love to go on holidays to places and experience very different types of weather. When the weather is very different then I can wear different types of clothes and do different things.

Last year I went on a holiday to visit a friend in Mexico. He took me to see the desert. It was very hot and dry in the daytime but cool at night. I wore my big sun hat and long sleeved cool shirt to stop me getting burnt while we were hiking. We made sure we took plenty of water in our packs. This is a photo of me looking at some unusual rocks in the desert.

Next year I want to visit a snowy place.

Your friend,
Wilma the Weather Wombat
